ZIEGLER supports fire departments in their training

Giengen, November 20th, 2020 – Albert Ziegler GmbH in Giengen supports fire departments in their training for the technical assistance. In order to be prepared for emergencies and to make the training as realistic as possible, ZIEGLER provides three fire departments with one truck cabin each for training, without charge.

The fire departments are therefore able to train the rescue of trapped persons over the rescue platform as well as firefighting on real cabins.

“Especially for fire departments, a high training standard is very important to be prepared for emergencies in the best way. With our ZIEGLER Academy we already provide a further training platform which is used by fire departments all over the world. Due to the rapidly changing vehicle technology in the area of technical assistance, for example in traffic accidents with trucks, it is especially important to train practice-oriented to have more safety in the case of application. This also implies more security for the society – for all of us. We are very pleased that we can additionally support here with the provision of the cabins.”, says Sven Kneer, COO of the ZIEGLER Group. Even if there are no practices possible currently due to the corona pandemic, we wish the fire departments much success in their practice as soon as the situation allows this again.
